- 650 USC undergraduate students of all faiths, ethnicities, and cultural heritages enroll in Jewish Studies courses at HUC-JIR each year
- Students from the HUC-JIR School of Jewish Communal Service pursue dual master's degree programs at USC's School of Social Work, School of Public Policy, Planning and Development, Marshall School of Business, Annenberg School for Communication, and School of Fine Arts

- Students at both institutions share access to USC's renowned libraries and research resources, including the Shoah Foundation archives
- Students, scholars, and the public benefit from programming sponsored by the USC Casden Institute for the Study of the Jewish Role in American Life, the USC Office of Religious Life, and HUC-JIR
